TELEGRAPHIC.

THE VERY LATEST NEWS BY WIRE

(By Special Telegraph.)

Sir Donald A. Smith, Cyrus Field and party have passed through to the Pacific coast.

Hon David Mills and party of Liberal members of Parliament passed through to the Pacific coast yesterday.

WINNIPEG, August 27, 1886.—Sir John Macdonald inspected the Ninetieth Battalion on Tuesday, and held a reception. On Wednesday evening he opened the Conservative convention, making a long speech reviewing the record of the party and exhorting those present to stand by their colors. He also gave reasons for continuance of disaffection.

Clinker Scott, the discoverer of the Cascade and other mines, was murdered near the scene of the stage robbery in vicinity of Calgary. Deceased was evidently preparing supper, for dough was over his hands and there was bread in the oven and coffee on the stove. His money belt, in which he usually carried a large sum, was lying at his feet. The real name of Scott was A. Keoghler, of Indiana, and he was a son of Herman Keoghler. He was married about three months ago. A verdict of murder by some party or parties unknown was rendered. Neighbors heard a shot on Tuesday evening.

A parcel of four or five hundred letters stolen from the Winnipeg post office was found in an unoccupied building at Fort Ronge. Suspicion points to a former employee of the department who is reported as skipped out.

Prince Alexander, who was deposed from the throne of Bulgaria, has reappeared. It is understood that he will be reinstated on Tuesday next with the consent of the Powers.

Reported that Senator Wilson will be appointed Lieutenant Governor of New Brunswick.

Sir John Macdonald left yesterday afternoon by special, at four o'clock, for Fort Arthur. The members of the convention and immense number of supporters assembled to see him off. Vigorous cheers were given and the Premier's last words were, "Stand by the Party."

It is officially announced that the C. P. R. telegraph system will open for business throughout the continent in a few days.

Col. Gilder, the New York Herald man who is seeking the North Pole, will arrive in Winnipeg in a few days, en route for Hudson's Bay.

Messrs. J. C. Mackenzie, J. Macdonald and R. J. Pritchard, have been appointed a committee of management for the Presbyterian Cemetery at the last meeting of the members of St. Paul's (Presbyterian) Church. It is the intention to have the grounds laid out, and graves marked, and the committee will be glad to hear from those who have friends buried there, who are willing to assist them. A price will also be put upon burial plots, so that those wishing to purchase burial plots may do so.

Mr. Montgomery, who is reporting on the yield from government seed grain in this district, visited the South Branch on Monday and Tuesday last. He reports the crops on the lower flat as good, but those in the Hatcher settlement poor. The difference in soil accounts for this, that of the latter settlement being high and sandy, and consequently not possessed of the moisture necessary to encourage growth in a dry season such as we have just experienced.

The Christmas term of the Prince Albert High School will (H. V.) not convene on Wednesday, 1st September, 1886, when all attending pupils are requested to be present so that classes may be organized without delay. Instruction will be given in the languages usually taught in High Schools, including French, Vocal Music and Drawing. A fee of $1 (payable in advance) will be charged to defray running expenses. For any further information apply to Rev. Alex. Campbell, B. A., Prince Albert.

SCHOOLS.

Some time ago a public meeting of our citizens was called to decide what steps should be taken to provide increased school accommodation, at which meeting the trustees were authorized to build a schoolhouse. But nothing has been done by the trustees as yet towards carrying out the instructions they received. What the reasons are for the delay we do not know, but we know this, that the lease of the building at present used as a school expires on the first of January. This being the case, the sooner the trustees proceed to business the better, or they will find themselves without school accommodation at the end of the year.

COLONIZATION SOCIETIES.

The settlers of Saskatoon recently held a public meeting at which they passed a resolution asking the Temperance Colonization Society to take advantage of the offer made by the Government to take the lands of the Society off its hands without the latter suffering any loss, and thus leave the settlers free to deal directly with the Government. In view of the fact that the Temperance Colonization Society have been in difficulties with the Government and the colonists, and further that the colonists are not able, owing to the almost total failure of their crops during the last three years, to fulfil the terms of their agreement with the Society, the sooner the latter throws up the sponge the better for all concerned.

We never had any faith in colonization Societies. They have, with few exceptions, been a blight on every district where they have taken root. Their promoters may claim to have the best interests of the country at heart, but it is impossible not to see that their principal object is to ultimately, if not immediately, make money out of the settlers. But few, if any, of them have been able to fulfil their agreement with the government, and the Government having offered to relieve them of their responsibilities on such good terms, they should, if they really have the interests of the settlers at heart, gracefully accept the Government's terms or be made do so. The Government should control the public lands, and intending settlers be able to deal directly with it.

MERCY.

If ever a government showed a disposition to be merciful to a vanquished foe—if ever the prerogative of mercy was exercised to the fullest extent consistent with expediency—we think that our present rulers have so exercised it. But while this may be our opinion, we cannot deny that there is a feeling in this district that the government went a step too far when it restored Dumont, Dumas and Garneau—who were scarcely less guilty than Louis Riel—to the rights which they had forfeited by taking up arms against the government, and it is possible that this may prove to be the case. However we trust that all will be well—that those who have profited by the clemency of the government will show by their future conduct that they appreciate to the fullest extent such far-reaching mercy.

But the organ of the opponents of the government in the Northwest—the Edmonton Bulletin—in a recent issue, endeavors to show that the policy of the government with regard to the rebels has taken a good many sharp curves, and says, "but the sharpest yet is the unconditional pardon of Dumont, Dumas, and all others connected with the outbreak except those who actually committed murder in cold blood," and, to show the distinction between what it considers murder in cold blood and what not, goes on to say: "In the case of the rebellion of last spring, provoked—but not justified—by maladministration, it would, of course, have been unreasonable to have treated everyone connected with it as a murderer because lives had been sacrificed." This is just the position the government took, with one exception, and the Indians who were executed were so punished because they were personally guilty of murder. The one exception was Riel. Why was he hung? Why did not the government pardon him also? We will let the Bulletin of June 22, 1885, give the reasons. Here they are:—"Riel should be hung . . . because he committed two of the blackest crimes of which humanity can be guilty. From motives of personal aggrandizement he betrayed his friends to death and ruin, and caused the slaughter and torture of those with whom he had no quarrel, knowing well what he was doing the while. The halfbreeds of the South Branch would not have risen in a hopeless cause had they not been deceived by the promises of foreign aid made by this scoundrel, and a misplaced faith in his objects. He caused their lives—their friends—to be sacrificed in a cause whose end and aim was solely and only to elevate Louis Riel to the rank of a conqueror. In inciting the Indians to outbreak he knew as well as anything could be known that he was doing men, women and children who had never harmed him or his, or been guilty of the slightest thought, or intent to harm them, to loss of property, loss of liberty, and loss of life by diabolical means." And this is the organ which now says it would have been better to have dealt with the rebels throughout in a spirit of general mercy. A rather "sharp curve," to be sure.

We regret having to refer to this melancholy matter so often, but when opposition journals in the Northwest question the wisdom of the government's action with regard to the rebels, we have a right, if we can, to defend its course, and even justify its action out of the mouths of its enemies.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Kingston Waig has put on a new dress, and changed from a four to an eight page paper. We wish the pioneer paper of Ontario continued success.

The National Policy reduced the price of tea six cents, and now the C. P. R. has reduced its cost by four cents, making in all ten cents. And yet the people support Sir John!!

T. W. JACKSON, M.N.W.C., has been advised to get the venom physicked out of him. When he undergoes this operation he will be about as harmless as he is now, though his jaw may not wag so hard.

It is stated that an Order-in-Council has been passed empowering the Northwest Council to incorporate companies having Territorial objects. This is a legislative privilege which has been needed by that body at every session since 1881, and will be appreciated by all concerned.

The Board of Education of the Territories have offered to schools not already provided with them a teacher's desk, seats and desks for twenty children, and a globe and set of maps, delivered free of charge at Regina. This is a liberal offer, and one that no board of school trustees should fail to accept.

A company composed of Senator Clouston, T. C. Rife, W. A. Allas, of Ottawa; James Murray, St. Catharines, and Alphonse Charlebois, of Quebec, have secured the Northwest Central Railway charter. This is a strong company, and gives assurance that that railway is to become an established fact. They propose building thirty miles of the road this year.

A York Colony correspondent of the Qu'Appelle Gazette, speaking of Mr. Davis's probable candidature for Eastern Assiniboia, says:—"If he comes here he will meet honest men and honest laws, and he will receive a very friendly welcome from them . . . and he will ungrudgingly get a host into the position by this community." Mr. Davis is certainly well deserving of the honor of being elected to represent Eastern Assiniboia in the Commons, and we hope he will be elected.

Fred. H. Young, agent of the David Maxwell manufacturing company, who recently made a backboard pilgrimage through this country, has been giving his impressions to the Edmonton Bulletin, and among other things says "The halfbreeds of the South Branch feel very self-satisfied and badly disposed towards the government. They admit being beaten last spring, but are not inclined to try it again. They are made to feel their position very keenly by the Prince Albert people." This is a libel both on the halfbreeds of the South Branch and the people of this district. Mr. Young is probably one of those with whom the wish is father to the thought.

A special meeting of the Council was held on Wednesday evening. All the members present except His Worship the Mayor. Leave of absence was granted the Mayor to December next. An address to Sir John was passed and ordered to be forwarded.

Township 49, range 22, and the west half of township 49, range 21, west of the 2nd meridian, heretofore known as the Ft. La Corne reserve, has been thrown open for public settlement, subject to the following reservations:—East half of section 13 and south west quarter of section 13, township 49, range 22, lying east of the Saskatchewan, and north west half section 24, township 49, range 22, and north west half section 22, lying north of the Saskatchewan reserved for public purposes, together with a strip of land five chains wide on both banks of the main Saskatchewan, from a point as far east as section 20, township 49, range 21, up to the junction of the two branches of the Saskatchewan.

SHERIFF'S SALE OF LANDS.

Under and by virtue of a writ of Fieri Facias de Terris, issued out of the Saskatchewan District Court, Prince Albert Division, on the Thirtieth day of March, A.D. 1886, at the suit of James MacArthur and Joseph Knowles against James Treston, and to me directed, I have seized and said James Treston, all the right title and all those parcels or tracts of land and premises situate, lying and being all the Town Lots in Block 8, between 12th and 13th Streets; A TRIP DOWN THE SASKATCHEWAN AND OVER LAKE WINNIPEG.

On Wednesday evening the Northwest arrived from the west bringing several passengers who crossed the Lake with us. Among them we noticed Mr. Edmondson of Edmonton on his way to Scotland, Mr. Harvey of Peace River District, and Mr. Gowan of Winnipeg.

The Colville arrived from the east on Wednesday evening about the same time as the Northwest, to the delight of all those eastern bound. Learning that the Colville would start on her return trip on Friday, we boarded on Thursday evening after bidding farewell to our friends going north, from whom we felt sorry to part, the few days we spent at Grand Rapids having been very pleasant notwithstanding our great desire to reach our journey's end.

The Colville started early on Friday morning, and after getting a few miles out into the lake had to return owing to the very high sea and anchored about a mile from our place of starting, and remained there till Saturday morning when we again set sail. We were out only a short time when the sea again got very rough, and the Colville began her old tricks, and then the circus commenced. At first it seemed quite pleasant, but what a sudden change! Heads began to hang down, countenances became haggard, and faces turned pale, and children were crying for the mother's milk. It was somewhat amusing for us at first, but the scene changed, and among the rest we hung up the shroud, and screamed to the terrible rolling of the Colville. We are now firmly convinced of the truth of the old saying, "Those who laugh last, laugh best."

Capt. Bell assures by the Colville, he thoroughly understands the good old ship, and we think from the way in which the Colville did her work that she thoroughly understood the Captain who has been in charge of her for over 10 years. We had only made sixty or seventy miles when we had to anchor again, and there we remained till the following morning. We had a terrible night before us. A dreadful storm arose, the thunder crashed loud and long, the lightning flashed, the wind blew a heavy gale, and the Colville pitched and rolled so that tables and chairs were overturned, dishes broken etc. We often felt that we would be thrown either upon the reef of rocks to the west of us, or driven out upon the rolling and raging waters to be wrecked and buried in the sands of the sea, but with both anchors cast one little steamer stood like the ramparts of Quebec, and she may yet be able, under the command of her brave and noble skipper, to weather many more such storms as we passed through that night.

As the morning opened dark and lowering with a calm sea the Colville once more traversed the treacherous waters of Lake Winnipeg. The day was unusually quiet, there being no clergyman on board we whiled away the weary hours as best we could.

Early in the day we crossed the bound ary between Manitoba and the Northwest, then the boys all seemed so happy and with one accord cried, "Out of bondage into freedom, and 'now we may have a smile in the old orthodox way.'"

About 8 p.m., we met the Princess near Humber Harbor with quite a number of passengers on board, taking in the pleasures of Lake Winnipeg, probably they would have some of the enjoyments we experienced the day previous.

It was here that a happy smile passed over the faces of our boys when for the first time after entering fair Manitoba, they looked upon that which cheers the weary and makes the poor feel rich. How they thirsted, their mouths even watered when they saw one of the waiters from the Princess, six foot six, carrying the best "Essence of Freedom" into the lower deck of the Colville, but alas! they still thirsted and their mouths still watered until they reached Selkirk twenty-four hours afterwards.

The delay at this place was an imposition upon the large number of passengers on board the Colville and was the means of causing them to spend another weary day on water. We do not attach any blame to the Captain, but we do to those in higher authority. After a long delay we again moved on, but being more uncomfortable by darkness the anchor was again cast. On Monday we had a pleasant day and reached Selkirk in the evening when some of our party went to Winnipeg as freight under difficulties—the rest remained in Selkirk viewing her hamlets and picturesque scenery. On Tuesday forenoon we reached Winnipeg, somewhat fatigued through the wear and tear of our long journey, which began eleven days before. After spending a couple of days there we next proceeded to Portage La Prairie. Passing from a somewhat desolate plain in the neighborhood of Winnipeg, we entered the beautiful and oft heard of fertile plains of the Portage. As usual the Portage plains presents a good appearance, there being every prospect in this district of a good crop. This vast plain of far stretching prairie, with her waving fields of ripening grain presented a picture of rare beauty to the vast extent of desolate waste we had passed through. On reaching the Portage we met many of our old friends with the oft repeated greeting "The Saturday after reaching this place the employees of the M. & N. W. Railway held their first annual picnic, and having received an invitation, decided to take it in. The picnic was held at MacArthur's Landing on the bank of the White Mud River, not far from Westhorpe, and a more delightful spot could not have been selected, nor could the arrangements have been carried out with greater perfection. About twenty cars, which were seated very comfortably and shaded on either side by rows of evergreens, left the Portage about 10:30 a.m., headed to their utmost capacity. A large excursion party came from the west, and another from the Portage about 4 p.m. We would judge there were about 2,000 on the grounds. The weather was showery for some time after starting, but cleared up about an hour after reaching the grounds, and continued fine during the remainder of the day. The afternoon was spent in dancing, swinging, boating, athletic sports, and as usual, eating and drinking, merrily and making merry. Each young man marched with his best girl beaming with smiles and decked in modish of different hues. About 10 p.m.—here 22 o'clock—the Portage train was homeward bound, and reached the town about an hour later, when all departed to their various places of abode delighted with their day's outing.

HOMeward BOUND.

After a pleasant time renewing old acquaintance, we turned our faces towards the setting sun, westward and homeward, and we must confess, with a feeling of deep satisfaction, knowing that once more we were traversing the road that leads to one of the brightest and most beautiful spots in our fair Dominion. In the usual time we reached our destination in safety without fear or escort. The trip was a very pleasant one although tedious and somewhat marred by wet. Among the passengers on the stage was Mr. Philip Garnet, Secretary of Riel's Council, who having been pardoned, was returning to his home at Beche, the scene of the late rebellion. Mr. Garnet has been writing a history of the rebellion, and will now revise his manuscript previous to publication. When we reached the Prince Albert District we were delighted with the appearance of the crops. During our extended tour we did not see a field of grain to equal that owned by Mr. Thos. Miller of the Ridge. We believe that Prince Albert is destined to be the center of one of the best agricultural districts in the Northwest.
